Last visit spent quite a bit of time establishing treatment plan with the patient . Discuss difference between direct and indirect onlay type restoration. Discuss rational between longevity of the restoration and the relationship between cost and lab processed. Patient looked at photos of the teeth and in the end seemed to appreciate the difference. I told the patient that we could place any restoration he requested but wanted him to understand the difference between the choices.

Note Created On: 5/4/2005 12:00:00 AM

Tooth #30. I did tell patient that tooth #30 would have to be evaluated at the time of treatment. I told the patient that full coverage would be probable due to the large amount of alloy that would have to be removed.

NARRATIVE: This tooth had a defective amalgam restoration and a facial and distal cracks with recurrent decay. The MF cusp was undermined in particular due to the extent of tooth structure involved after removal of the amalgam and crack. This tooth required cuspal coverage on the MF, but lingual cusps were not involved and remained in tact; it was treated definitively with a partial crown to restore the buccal cusps.
